CENTER FOR ORGANIZATIONAL EXCELLENCE VOLUNTEERS STRIVE TO HELP SOLVE HUNGER

Rockville, Md. (June 2, 2015) – Volunteers from The Center for Organizational Excellence, Inc. (COE) joined the Capital Area Food Bank (CAFB) at their Distribution Center in Northeast DC on Saturday, May 30, to help strengthen the hunger safety net in the Greater Washington Area. The project involved packing and sorting donated food, re-packaging food for distribution, assisting with food pick-up orders, and straightening the warehouse to help keep it neat and organized.

“COE is devoted to improving the quality of life for members of our local communities,” said Steve Goodrich, president and CEO of The Center for Organizational Excellence, Inc. “The company is proud to assist the CAFB, a hunger-relief organization that makes a great impact with the great programs they run every day. Caring and helping are two of COE’s core company values and—in keeping with the CAFB’s motto—we too believe that ‘Together We Can Solve Hunger’.”

About Capital Area Food Bank

The Capital Area Food Bank creates access to good, healthy food for people in the DC area. CAFB distributes 35 million meals annually to over 500,000 people in the Metro region who struggle every day with hunger. They work with a network of 500 partner agencies to distribute over 40 million pounds. The CAFB offers volunteer opportunities to individuals and groups (of up to 40 people) on Mondays through Saturdays from 9:00AM to 12:00PM and 1:00PM to 4:00PM. The minimum age to volunteer is 12-years-old, and youths under 18 years of age must be accompanied by an adult.
